– CHAMBERS & PARTNERS, 2024

Year of call: 1994
Degree: BA Hons (Cantab)
Languages: French (fluent)

Emma Dixon is a highly rated human rights, public law, regulatory practitioner with particular expertise in, and passion for, discrimination and equality law.

Emma undertakes public law, equality and human rights challenges in a range of areas including: charities; civil liberties; commercial JR; discrimination and equality; end of life issues; EU law and Brexit; healthcare; NHS issues; regulatory and professional disciplinary matters; religious organisations; the regulation of the Internet, radio & TV broadcasting; telecommunications regulation; and transport.

Emma has extensive experience of advising central and local Government and other public bodies. She is a member of the Equality and Human Rights Commission ('EHRC') A panel of counsel, and also sits as a Legally Qualified Chair for the MPTS (which makes independent decisions about whether doctors are fit to practise medicine).

Emma's clients include a broad range of private clients (including a number in the music and entertainment sector); third sector bodies (including charities and NGOs, both large and small); and public bodies (including: the Bar Standards Board, the Charity Commission, the Environment Agency, the Equality and Human Rights Commission, the General Medical Council, Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Constabulary, the Human Dignity Trust, the Independent Police Complaints Commission, Ofwat, the Royal College of Pathologists, the Solicitors Regulation Authority and the Solicitors Disciplinary Tribunal).

She is recognised as a leading junior in the latest editions of both the leading legal directories, Chambers UK and Legal 500, for her expertise in administrative and public, environment and professional discipline. Recent quotes include:

- "A phenomenally bright junior."- Legal 500, 2024
- "So clever; she is a go-to counsel for advice on complex matters."- Chambers & Partners, 2024

Previous quotes include:

- "She is brilliant, knowledgeable and also has an extremely high level of client service."- Legal 500, 2023
- "She's great to work with, very approachable and very clever."- Chambers UK, 2023
- "She is technically excellent, very responsive, and gets to the nub of the issue really quickly. Emma is an intellectual giant."- Chambers UK, 2023

Emma undertakes a range of pro bono activities. She has undertaken work on the ELAAS (Employment Law Appeal Advice) scheme and for Advocate (formerly the Bar Pro Bono Unit) and also carries out a range of mentoring activities (notably with students at the University of Westminster as well as via the Bar Council Discrimination Law Mentoring Scheme and Maternity Mentoring Scheme). She has also provided legal and other support to a number of environmental campaigns, notably in relation to the climate emergency.

EXPERIENCE

Public & Regulatory

Emma acts for both claimants and defendants in a wide variety of cases, ranging from environmental judicial review to discrimination law challenges and professional disciplinary matters before the Administrative Court and in specialist tribunals.

Emma's public law practice covers a wide range of areas and interests including in particular: advertising; biodiversity; charities; the climate emergency; coroners and inquests; discrimination and equality; ecology and the natural environment; healthcare and end of life; internet regulation and new technologies; planning; and the regulation of broadcasting and telecommunications.

In the regulatory law field, Emma has particular expertise in the following areas: Advertising Standards Authority cases; charities (including appearances before the Charity Tribunal and Upper Tribunal both for and against the Charity Commission); environmental regulation; EU law and Brexit; healthcare (including cases involving healthcare regulators in the field including the PSA, as well as a number of Royal Colleges); HFEA issues; legal regulators (including cases for the BSB, the SRA and the Solicitors' Disciplinary Tribunal); police (Emma has acted for both HMIC and the IPCC); pharmacies regulation; and internet/telecoms regulation (including cases relating to action by the ICO, Ofcom, the Phone Standards Authority and the Phone-Paid Services Authority).

Emma has a particular interest in cases involving the NHS, including NHS funding; and end-of-life treatment and care.

"Brilliant, thoughtful and diligent."

Civil Liberties & Human Rights

Emma is a human rights practitioner who has appeared before the ECtHR and the ECJ as well as arguing human rights and discrimination law points before a wide variety of domestic courts and tribunals. In the human rights field, Emma has particular breadth and depth of experience in cases involving the right to a fair trial (under Article 6 ECHR), the right to freedom of expression (Article 10 ECHR), and the right to non-discrimination in the enjoyment of human rights (under Article 14 ECHR). In the discrimination law field Emma has extensive experience of giving advice and arguing cases relating to: disability discrimination and reasonable adjustments; transgender rights; religious equality; pregnancy and surrogacy; and the right to a fair trial without discrimination. Emma enjoys taking a creative and proactive approach to dispute resolution and has for example assisted in negotiated settlements of a number of cases with multiple claimants in the fields of disability and age discrimination. She also has special expertise in equality cases involving the entertainment industry, the music industry, event planning, social media, and broadcasting. Emma takes a particular interest in cases involving the balancing of competing rights (such as, for example, in the case of religion and sexual orientation). She has expertise in the equality law human rights aspects of Internet regulation (including the draft Online Safety Bill) and the liabilities of social media platforms (including under EU law).

“Incisive and clear thinking in her approach to complex issues. Grasps the client’s concerns and always exceeds expectations combining strong professionalism with good people skills.”
