BM Brazil v Sibanye BM Brazil (Pty) Ltd

[2024] EWHC 2566 (Comm)

Andrew acted (in a six week Commercial Court trial) for the successful Claimant sellers pursuing claims arising out of the termination of SPAs in respect of Brazilian mining assets under which in excess of US$1 billion was payable. The main issue was whether the First Defendant buyer was entitled to refuse to close under the contracts, and to terminate them, on the ground that a geotechnical event (“GE”) at one of the mines constituted a Material Adverse Effect (“MAE”). The Claimant sellers disputed this and maintained that the First Defendant’s purported termination was wrongful and repudiatory, entitling the Claimants to terminate the contracts in accordance with their terms and at common law. The Court agreed with the Claimants on this issue and granted declarations accordingly. The case is likely to be a leading authority on the proper construction of MAE clauses, with various authorities (both in England and in the USA) being considered and the Judge giving important guidance on how such clauses allocate risk and how materiality is assessed. The quantum trial is due to be heard in November 2025.

The trial, and Andrew's conduct of it, received worldwide press attention, including: BBC News; The Financial Times; CNN; Sky News.

The four test Claimants alleged they were subjected to voicemail interception through the hacking of their phones and those of their associates and other forms of unlawful information gathering between 1991 and 2011. Two of the claims raised important issues of limitation with wider implications for other claimants. In claims where limitation was in issue MGN's limitation defence succeeded in full, and the claims were dismissed. Of the others, the Court found the Duke of Sussex's claim to be proved in part; and the claim of Michael Turner was found to be proved to a limited extent.

Taveta Investments v Financial Reporting Council

[2018] EWHC 1662 (Admin)

Andrew acted for Taveta in seeking an interim injunction restraining the FRC from publishing a settlement document agreed with Taveta's auditors. The basis of the application was that the FRC had acted in breach of the duty of fairness in not affording Taveta's management any 'Maxwellisation' rights. The Court accepted the arguability of Taveta's arguments (this being the first case in which the High Court has, even on an interim basis, found an arguable breach of the duty to afford a third party 'Maxwellisation' rights), and granted permission to judicially review the FRC. [2017] EWHC 2767 (Ch)

Andrew acted for the successful Petitioner, the former President of Blackpool FC, in his action claiming unfair prejudice. The Companies Court found that the company's majority shareholders had wrongly paid themselves disguised dividends, in the form of nearly £25m of excessive remuneration and uncommercial intra-group loans following Blackpool's promotion to the Premier League, while excluding the Petitioner from management. The Court ordered a buyout of the Petitioner's shares for £31m, basing this valuation on giving effect to an informal 'gentleman's agreement' that the Petitioner was to be treated as an equal shareholder, notwithstanding his formal holding of only a 20% stake.

Crown Bidco Ltd v Vertu Holdings Oy (& ors)

(Commercial Court. Settled 2017)

The case arose out of a series of renegotiated contracts for the sale by Sapporo of brewing hops. Lupofresh sought to set aside the contracts on the grounds of economic duress, intimidation, anticipatory repudiatory and misrepresentation. Of particular legal interest is the confirmation by the CA that Art. 8(2) of the Rome Convention relates only to the existence, and not to the validity, of consent under a contract. This issue was due to be heard by the Supreme Court in February 2015, but the case settled shortly before the hearing.
